Northeast Gets Graduate School Approval Friday

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) — Northeast State College of Monroe will offer its first post-graduate program this summer, Dr. George T. Walker, college president, announced here Friday.

He made the announcement after the state board of education approved plans for a graduate program for teachers and school administrators.

"Persons interested in working on a Master's should make contact next week with the registrar, Dr. Luke Oxford, at Northeast," Dr. Walker said.

The graduate program will begin at the summer session, which starts in June.

The board, at a day-long session, approved plans for a new student union building at Northeast, but deferred action on two dormitories.

FURTHER STUDY

"Further study will be made on a dormitory for 150 coeds and a dormitory for 150 male students," Dr. Walker explained.

Architects for the student union building are Johns and Neel, Monroe, while architects designing plans for the men's dormitory are Turpin and Wells, Monroe, and Walker and Walker of Shreveport for the women's dormitory.

In addition, the board accepted as "substantially" complete three new buildings at Northeast—Madison Hall, an air-conditioned dormitory for 300 male students; Breaux Hall, an air-conditioned dormitory for 150 coeds and a 25-musical expansion.

Dr. Walker said the three facilities would be occupied for the summer session.

Northeast, a four-year college since 1950, will offer graduate work for teachers in biology, business administration, chemistry, English, health and physical education, mathematics, music, physics, social sciences and speech.

"We at Northeast are very happy to be able to make the graduate program available to interested teachers in Monroe and all of northeast Louisiana," Dr. Walker said.

In addition, there will be graduate courses in elementary education.

Conspiracy Case Figure Found Shot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Thurman A. Whiteside, a key figure in the conspiracy case involving former FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack, was found shot to death Friday in his law office.

Whiteside was discovered by his secretary. Police said a 22-caliber automatic pistol was found partially in his hand and in his lap. He was slumped in a chair at a conference table.

Dr. Joseph Davis, county medical examiner, said Whiteside telephoned his wife early in the afternoon. Mrs. Whiteside, he said, became alarmed over the tone of his conversation and telephoned Whiteside's secretary, who began searching.

The attorney had been shot in the right temple and Dr. Davis said, "apparently he died almost instantly."

Whiteside was acquitted last October of a federal charge that he conspired with Mack, also a Miami, to rig a FCC award of Miami Channel 10 to Public Service Television, Inc., a subsidiary of National Airlines.

It was the second trial for Whiteside. In a first trial, along with Mack, the proceedings ended in a hung jury.

Testimony in Whiteside's trial was to the effect that Mack received money in alleged loans from Whiteside and alleged commissions from an insurance company.

The jury acquitted Whiteside on both counts of an indictment. One charged that he conspired with Mack, the other that he corruptly influenced Mack.

Kennedy Signs Judgeship Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, using 10 pens, signed a bill creating 73 new federal judgeships Friday.

Kennedy asked for more judges to help relieve crowded court dockets. He distributed the pens among legislators and others who assisted the signing.

The bill provides for 63 additional district judges in 32 states and Puerto Rico and 10 new judges in the circuit courts of appeals. This is a record increase.

With 22 vacancies already existing, Kennedy now has 95 judicial appointments to fill, more than any president ever had at one time.

Government To Intervene Over Rights School Troubles Expected Again In New Orleans

WASHINGTON (Special) — Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy has predicted there will be more civil rights "problems" in New Orleans next September and throughout Louisiana next year.

Wherever local authorities refuse to act on Civil Rights questions, he said, "we ourselves will have to move."

Kennedy's statement appeared in closed testimony released by the House Appropriations Committee Friday. He testified Feb. 28.

In response to questioning by Rep. Frank T. Bow (R-Ohio), on the New Orleans integration strike, Kennedy said, "I think we have achieved a very satisfactory result, the result being that the Governor has in fact recognized and the Legislature has in fact recognized the fact that these two schools will be operated on a desegregated basis."

PRESSURE

"We have kept up the pressure. We indicated to them down there — that the Federal Government was going to use its full power to insure that the court decisions were carried out."

But he added: "I do not wish to come here, congressmen, to say that is the end of the problem in New Orleans, because we shall have more problems in September."

"We shall have more problems in other places in Louisiana, come next year, and we shall have more problems in all of the states wherever this is a very sensitive problem and difficult."

Asked where the Justice Department expected to take a more aggressive role in Civil Rights litigation, Kennedy noted there are 14 or 15 U. S. countries in which Negroes outnumber Whites, but no Negroes are registered to vote.

He said, "we intend to take whatever steps can be taken and should be taken under the law."

JFK Blocks Threatened Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Friday blocked a threatened nationwide railroad strike Monday by the 6,000-member Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Kennedy invoked the Railway Labor Act to delay any walkout at least 60 days. He set up an emergency board to air the dispute, and make settlement recommendations in 30 days. An additional 20-day no-strike period is provided for negotiations.

Actually, nobody really expected a strike Monday. Invoking emergency provisions after a strike threat has become a more or less standard way to get rail disputes settled. Board recommendations are generally always accepted.

In Chicago, union President Milton G. Schuch had said in advance he would accept the strike postponement.

The Brotherhood dispute is a hangover from the 1956-60 rail tie-up. Negotiations, Schuch said, the union wants a 50-cent raise on an average $400 monthly pay. However, it was indicated pay rates were not so much in dispute as demands for paid holidays and more liberal vacations.

The President named Harold M. Gidlen, Chicago attorney, as chairman of the emergency board. Other members are William H. Cohen, Washington attorney, and the Rev. Leo Cyril Brown, St. Louis University economics professor.

House Gives Approval To General Money Bill

ASSOCIATED PRESS newsmen Robert Berrellez, left, and Harold Milks shout with joy as they reach Miami, Fla., Friday aboard the plane which brought 101 persons out of Cuba. Berrellez was in jail in Havana from April 17 until last week when he was released. Milks took refuge in an embassy when Castro's police rounded up newsmen during the ill-fated invasion last month. ## Repatriates Happy Over Leaving Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fifty-two American repatriates from Castro's Cuba, including the last U. S. newsmen there, returned Friday night from imprisonment or harassment in Havana.

"Tonight, for the first time since April 16, I hope to sleep in a bed," said Robert Berrellez of Nogales, Ariz., Associated Press correspondent at Havana. He was a prisoner in grim La Cabana fortress for a month.

FLED MILITARIANS

"I saw the streets of Havana for the first time today since April 16," said Harold K. Milks, Associated Press Caribbean services chief who fled Castro's militiamen and took embassy asylum in Havana.

The repatriates arrived aboard a charter airliner carrying 101 passengers. Also aboard were Cuban refugees.

Tearful reunions with loved ones and cheers from hundreds awaiting them at Miami International Airport marked the first sizable return of Americans since the unsuccessful April 17 invasion of Cuba, and the arrests by militiamen that followed.

Berrellez, a newsmen in Cuba since soon after Castro took over in 1959, said: "I was one of those who were jailed the day of the invasion. Cuban militiamen picked me up at 5 p.m. at the New York Times office. I was taken to G-2 (intelligence) headquarters, where they wouldn't tell me why I was in custody."

Ruby Hart Phillips, New York Times correspondent, said she learned only ten minutes before Friday's plane left that she could leave. She appeared exhausted.

Milks said he spent the last month in asylum "from Castro's gun-toting G-2 agents, first in the Dutch Embassy and since April 17 in the Cuban Embassy."

DEPORTATION UPHELD Marcello Loses U.S. Return Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled Friday that the deportation of Carlos Marcello to Guatemala last April 4 was valid and legal.

The judge upheld the government's contention and at the same time denied a motion by attorneys for Marcello that the deportation be declared illegal. The judge was to prevent Marcello's return to this country unless the ruling is overturned.

LONG BATTLE

Marcello, a New Orleans racketeer, was forcibly deported by the government to Guatemala last April 4. He subsequently was sent from that country to El Salvador and in turn from there to Costa Rica, where he was deported to the United States.

The government deportation proceeding against Marcello has been pending since 1952, at which time the government sought to force him out of this country because of a conviction in 1941 under the Racketeer Tax Act.

By a series of legal actions Marcello had avoided deportation until he was seized and taken to Guatemala.

Holtzoff, in upholding the government position, said that the government of Guatemala had accepted Marcello and that once Marcello had been accepted and taken by plane to Guatemala the deportation was valid.

The court considered that the deportation was in accordance with statutory law and was not tainted with any "immorality," Holtzoff said.

With the deportation of Rick to the United States, the government's long battle against the racketeer was over.

Gibbs' Welfare Cuts Issue Hands Davis First Loss

By SAM HANNA, World Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE—Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' general appropriations bill of $514 million was adopted by the house Friday, but the honeymoon ended. Davis lost control of the legislature.

Whether the governor recaptures the lawmaking next week depends on a politically hot welfare issue carried by Rep. Lawrence Gibbs of Monroe.

The House voted 82-2 to adopt the big money item, but Davis' forces retreated when Gibbs forced the issue on whether the House would guarantee the prevention of a $2 per month cutback in old age checks.

An amendment by Rep. Henry Bethard Jr., Red River Parish, restoring the proposed cut in the welfare program passed without objection.

FIRST DEFEAT

This marked the first time the Legislature did something the administration didn't want since Davis took office a year ago.

Rep. Rusey Traylor, a floor leader of Natchitoches, tried to explain that the proposed reduction would provide matching funds for a new medical and program for the aged.

"We've heard a lot of political speeches by people with bleeding hearts for the old folks," Traylor argued, explaining that the welfare program was being enriched by a $15-million increase.

But Gibbs, supported by several others, backed the administration to the wall, contending that the reduction didn't have to be made.

"It becomes obvious," Traylor declared, "if Mr. Gibbs wants to raise the old folks, he should let the old folks live."

Laos Cites Cease-Fire Violations

GENEVA (UPI) — The Royal government of Laos charged Friday that Soviet-supplied rebels are "continuing to mass arms" and Royal forces despite the cease-fire called in Laos on May 3.

The charge by Laotian Premier Prince Boun Oum was delivered to the 14-nation conference by Foreign Minister Van Man Man of pro-Western South Viet Nam. The Royal Lao delegation is boycotting the talks.

Much of Friday's actual conference, developments were overshadowed by talks between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko over the forthcoming Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting and to the problems of Laos.

Rusk was the only major Western leader left in Geneva and he planned to leave Saturday. The British, French and Canadian delegations were still in the city.

Some 100 Chinese battled the Communists throughout the night and finally stopped it before it reached the city's financial district.

Yao Miao, Chinese Vice Premier, said most of the night with the Communists and preliminary estimates placed the damage at $25 million.

The only casualty officially reported at dawn was one fireman who collapsed from smoke inhalation. But it was feared some injured bodies may be found in the ruins when it becomes possible to search.

The fire, which began Thursday night, showed through black after dark on the burning Chinatown, where tens of thousands of people live and work.

Alabama Bans Freedom Riders

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones Friday issued an injunction forbidding "freedom riders" from testing bus segregation in Alabama.

The injunction, requested by Alabama Atty. Gen. McDonald Galloway after conferences with Gov. John Patterson, was issued against the Congress of Racial Equality and any of its followers.

It prohibits them from "entry into and travel within the state of Alabama, and engaging in the so-called 'freedom ride' and other acts or conduct calculated to provoke breaches of the peace."

The court order was issued while a biracial group was waiting in the Birmingham bus station after two unsuccessful efforts to ride a bus integrated to Montgomery.

Partly Cloudy, Warmer Today

In case you haven't noticed, winter is over. Yes, it was warm yesterday — some say it was hot. And the weatherman says that it will likely be even more so today and Sunday.

Partly cloudy skies are predicted with the mercury expected to soar as high as 92 today.

No rainfall is predicted in the Twin Cities area but some scattered portions of the state can expect isolated afternoon thunder showers today.

The high Friday was 90 degrees and the lowest reading recorded at Selman Field was a comfortable 67.

Welfare Cutbacks Denied By Official

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) — Louisiana Welfare Benefits are increasing, rather than decreasing, a department of Public Welfare spokesman declared Friday.

Commissioner Mervyn Evers and his associates are not getting any red ink, a department spokesman, who asked not to be identified, gave an explanation on the department's proposed programs pertaining to new medical benefits.

The house, before adjourning Friday, amended the budget to restore a reputed $2 monthly cutback in old age checks, then went home to return for a public hearing on the question next week.

This is the explanation given by the department.

The effect of the Javits Cooper amendment would have been to increase the grants to such low income states as Mississippi, Arkansas and North Carolina the first year. But it also would have increased the grants for high states like New York and New Jersey.

Triche's own remarks set the stage for a move to boost the Welfare benefits, a proposition that would be dynamic for the administration to oppose.

Rebellion erupted in the House two days ago when Gibbs, Rep. Mike John Jr., Monroe, Rep. Richard Bertrand, Lafayette, and Rep. Jack Dyer, Baton Rouge, offered the resolution to restore the proposed cuts.

Until then the administration had been in the driver's seat, even though lawmakers attempting to introduce legislation had been checked by the floor whips.

Rep. John Schweigmann, Jefferson Parish, and Rep. Maurice Landrum, Orleans Parish, were the only House members voting against the appropriations bill. "Why don't we give this money to the Welfare program to restore the cut," Schweigmann suggested while voicing opposition to a $180,000 appropriation for the alcoholic beverage commission.

Coming out of committee with a $1-million increase, the major money bill was adopted almost exactly as it was presented, although the House added:

- $100,000 more than the administration wanted for adult education.
- $375,000 extra for Avoyelles Parish drainage.

The House adjourned at noon until 5 p.m. Monday, sending the appropriations bill to the Senate, which reconvenes at 7 p.m. Sunday. The Senate will begin consideration of the measure Monday.

Rep. Bryan Lehmann, of Nacogdoches, a floor leader and House appropriations chairman, had the budget item well under control until Gibbs offered a motion to delay the Welfare budget until Tuesday.

A public hearing has been set by the House at 11 a.m. Tuesday to meet with representatives of the Welfare Department for an explanation on the reduction and

Berrellez told this story about his imprisonment. "I was asked to fill out a sort of identification form, then was driven to Principe prison, which has the reputation of being one of the worst in Cuba."

"We arrived there about 8:30 a.m. and the jail was so jammed that there was no way to squeeze in. It was raining and on the other side of the deep water-filled moats we could see groups of prisoners huddled around small campfires."

"The G-2 took us back to town and threw us into a privately owned home. There were 187 of us in four small rooms and one toilet. We had to sleep on the floor and usually on top of other people. Some of the luckier ones found a step on the staircase and slept there. There was no furniture in the building and no heat. It was quite chilly at night."

"I spent from April 17 to May 1 in the small house, and then was transferred to La Cabana prison. Our civilian clothing was taken from us and we were issued old Batista army summer uniforms. I never saw my clothing again."

"On May 12 I was led to a locker with a huge pile of clothing and told to pick out something to wear. I got a shirt and some socks which almost fitted me. Guards led me to the gate and I walked out to the street and hailed a cab to the Swiss Embassy. I had the cab driver stop at a place where I knew I

"I talked to an official of the Welfare Department and he said there was no need for the reduction," he added.

Meantime, Chris Easer, the governor's assistant, watched later coming from Davis' office to buttonhole individual senators.

Triche darted into the governor's office too.

Bertrand, a constant needle in the administration, accused Davis of not conferring with lawmakers on the budget. He said the Legislature didn't have any say in the matter.

Rep. Frank Fulco of Shreveport then took the floor to blast Director L. D. Young, Wildlife, for "waste, inefficiency and wrongdoing."

Finally, after four hours the House adjourned, ending the first two weeks of the fiscal session. The adoption of the appropriations bill is its biggest accomplishment to date.

The Europeans obviously singled out the Swiss for the raid because Switzerland is host to the Algerian nationalist delegation for the peace talks opening Saturday across the Swiss border in Evian-les-Bains, France.

The consulate attack climaxed a series of plastic bomb attacks in Oran, one damaging City Hall.

In the Constantine region of eastern Algeria, an Algerian was shot to death by a terrorist who was wounded by another terrorist who also got away.

In Paris a group of Algerians tied on a police car in the Left Bank area. Police returned the fire and one of the occupants was killed.

Terrorists also attacked a police station in Paris, wounding two officers.

In Algiers, three plastic bombs—favorite weapon of right-wing extremists—exploded wounding two passersby.

Evian-les-Bains was to have been the site of peace negotiations last April 7 but they never came off. A week earlier two bombs exploded there, killed Liberal Mayor Camille Blanc and injured his wife. The bombs were of a type used by right-wing extremists.

David Carliner, an attorney for Marcello, contended, however, that the U. S. Immigration Service had relied on a forged birth certificate in representing to Guatemala that Marcello had been born in that country.

He said that had the government of Guatemala known that this document was a forgery it would not have been willing to accept Marcello into the country. He said the government of Guatemala subsequently had repudiated the document when it sent Marcello into El Salvador.

Carliner said that Guatemala accepted Marcello into the country on the strict basis that he was a native of that country. Therefore he contended, the court should consider that point and not the government's contention that it was immaterial on what basis Guatemala accepted Marcello so long as they did accept him.

Wasserman in telling newsmen that he would appeal the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals said it was "clear that Marcello can only be accepted by Guatemala if he is a citizen of Guatemala."

Dr. J. E. Walsworth

A pioneer in the field of medicine in northeast Louisiana, Dr. James E. Walsworth, died this week following a heart attack.

The 71-year-old surgeon had practiced medicine for 47 years, 42 of them in Monroe. At the time of his death he was on the senior advisory committee at St. Francis hospital. He was active in his practice until shortly before his death.

Dr. Walsworth was a charter member, past president and life member of the Monroe Kiwanis Club. During the years when he was an officer in that civic organization, the group sponsored the bond issue for the present Ouachita Parish courthouse.

A native of Jackson Parish and a member of the Methodist Church, Dr. Walsworth graduated from Louisiana Tech and Vanderbilt Medical School. Special training at the University of Pennsylvania and in Vienna, Austria, were also included in his educational background.

In 1919, when he began practice in the northeast Louisiana area, pursuing his career in that field, he became president of the Ouachita Parish Medical Society, chief of surgery and chief of staff at both St. Francis and E. A. Conway Memorial hospitals.

In all the professions there are those whose continued service through the years lends to their particular field a mark of stability and dignity. Such a person among physicians and surgeons in the Monroe area was Dr. James E. Walsworth.

More On Taking Half

Congressional crusaders against states' rights and individual freedom are using Russian tactics in order to get bills through congress. They are agreeing to take only half—half, that is, of something that belongs to some one else.

Administration leaders, in a bid for southern support, are reported to be willing to accept an aid-to-education amendment which, in effect, would prevent the federal government from withholding funds from segregated schools.

The amendment is drafted in general terms. It would bar the withholding of school-aid funds to any kind of federal control.

Senator Herman E. Talmadge, D., Ga. originally wrote the amendment to the $2.5 billion Kennedy administration school-aid bill. But under strategy approved by the Democratic leaders it probably will be offered instead by Senator Lee Metcalf, D., Mont.

The version put forth by Talmadge is not as strong as another by Senator Strom Thurmond, D., S.C., which would specifically forbid the government to withhold funds from states or communities which operate segregated schools.

The strategy reported to have been agreed upon by Democratic leaders in the administration and at the capitol would give southern assurances that school-aid would not be used as a lever to force integration.

Democrats expected to win southern votes with the generally phrased restriction on withholding of funds, Talmadge said he would vote for the school-aid bill if it were included.

No 16-year-old high school dreamer could be so naive as to believe that, once federal aid is established, it would not be used as a lever to force integration and everything else the federal government wants. Control is the only real purpose of advocates of federal funds for schools.

The rankiest amateur in politics knows that if the federal school control advocates do not get everything they want this time, they will use what they do get as a means of driving in further the wedge to federal control. If they get further approval of federal aid they will be back at the next session of congress not only with bills to remove the restriction but with other bills specifically stating that no federal aid will be granted for non-integrated schools.

Federal aid for schools is simply a means of taking the people's tax money away from them and then giving part of it back to those who agree to do what the federal government wants. Those who don't agree not only will get nothing from the government but will be in a position of having their state school money reduced because the federal government is getting a still larger share of our taxes.

These tactics have been amply demonstrated in so-called civil rights laws. At the last session of congress southerners comprised with integrationists because the integrationists agreed to leave out some of the most objectionable phases of the bill. Now those same integrationists, having got more than half a loaf the first time, are back with bills that are more vicious against the south than ever.

Approval of federal aid for the schools will open the floodgates for a huge rush of federal control over local school affairs. This is well known by all proponents and opponents of federal aid, regardless of whether they admit it.

Any concessions we make on the question of federal aid amount to nothing more than a falling-back operation. It will mean attrition in full swing.

England Beats Socialists

While the United States seems to be moving toward socialism, a brand of government that has failed inevitably down through history, England apparently has had a stomach full of that sort of rule. The same is true of Wales.

It is significant that in town council elections in England and Wales the labor party has been stripped of most of the gains it has made in the last three years. A strong swing toward conservatism.

Socialists apparently suffered a loss of 225 seats. When election returns were tallied in 1958 the party tallied a gain of 295 seats.

Not many years after the end of World War II England turned socialist and many of the heavy industries were placed under government control. The government was unable to operate these industries efficiently and now a large proportion has been turned back to private operation.

Although many of the top officials of the United States are "liberals," or socialists, the trend among the people already seems to be swinging back toward conservatism, as evidence by the fact that installment spending by individuals is generally being held to 10 per cent of income and conservative clubs are being organized in colleges. Maybe we won't have to go through the full agonies of socialism before we can turn away from it.

Most of Africa is open to the tourist, says a travel article. The Congo is different. It's only open to violence.

Considering the tough work and subsistence pay, President Kennedy's new peace corps is likely to attract only hard core enthusiasts.

The United States is figuring on a program of aid to Cuban intellectuals. Fidel will have to get his aid from somewhere else.

The United States has helped Israel open a Dairy Training Center to provide technical training for workers in Israel's developing dairy industry.

More than $1.5 million per day is spent on roads within the Los Angeles city limits.

Justice Dept. Retribution

Triple Damages, which may Total $250 Million, May Be Sought From Electrical Equipment Firms

The Justice Department is drastically upping the amount of damages it is proposing to seek from those electrical equipment companies convicted of price fixing. The new total may run as high as $250 million — three times the original $80 million estimate.

And that isn't all that's being planned backstage to crack down on price rigging. Attorney General Robert Kennedy is drafting a provision that the General Services Administration will include in all contracts of more than $25,000, requiring bidders to certify under oath that they did not engage in collusion. Violators would be subject to prosecution for perjury.

The Anti-Trust Division is conducting price fixing probes in numerous cities throughout the country. The FBI is doing much of this investigating.

Recently, Kennedy became so indignant at certain businessmen who refused to talk to these FBI probes that he was on the verge of publicly denouncing them.

But this harsh retaliation was temporarily shelved on the advice of Justice Department and other administration officials. They urged that grand jury action be invoked against recalcitrants.

Particularly under scrutiny is identical bidding on dairy and bakery products, tires, tubes, chemicals, gasoline, electronic devices, aluminum sheets, hose assemblies.

The youthful Attorney General apparently feels very strongly about price rigging. At one Cabinet meeting he emphatically declared the government could cut costs by $1 to $2 billion a year if identical bidding were wiped out. Asserted Kennedy, "If government purchasing agencies did a better job of policing their contracts, huge sums could be saved."

LOADING THE GUN—The new greatly increased damage claims against the electrical equipment companies are predicated on data compiled by economists of the Anti-Trust Division.

This was disclosed by Assistant Attorney General Lee Loevinger, head of the agency, at a meeting with a House Government Operations Subcommittee. He was questioned about these widely anticipated claims by Elmer Henderson, committee counsel.

"Have you reached any conclusions on the possible loss to the government that resulted from identical bidding?" asked Henderson.

"In the so-called Philadelphia cases, we have filed a number of open - end complaints," replied Loevinger. "We have not specified the exact amount of damage because that is still being determined. Our economists are working on that."

"But to give you some notion of the magnitude of the amount involved, in the first case we considered there is a reasonable possibility that the prices may have been inflated as much as 40 per cent by bid rigging. Other cases under study indicate the government was overcharged 20 to 25 per cent."

"The government's total purchases of electrical equipment by the companies involved came to several billion dollars. That means a very great loss to the government. Whether we can sustain damage claims of that magnitude across the board remains to be seen. But I certainly think it is fair to say this high amount of damage involves a significant percentage of government purchases."

"In other words," said Henderson, "if the government could put an end to collusive identical bidding, a great deal of money could be saved."

"There is no question about it," declared Loevinger firmly. "It would run into the billions."

FOREIGN FLASHES — Revealing indication on how long that 14-nation conference on strife - torn Laos may last: The Red Chinese delegation has taken a six-months lease on the Geneva hotel rooms. It is occupying. In direct contrast, the U. S. delegation is leasing hotel accommodations on a monthly basis. Russian cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin is on a propaganda tour in his own homeland, but on an entirely different subject from space. He is traveling in the provinces urging young Russians to volunteer for farming in the so-called "virgin lands." Moscow has said nothing about this latest use of Gagarin, but it came to light in articles in provincial newspapers about his appearances and spief.

President and Mrs. Kennedy's forthcoming trip to Paris will be followed by a royal visit. The Shah and Queen of Iran have accepted President de Gaulle's invitation and will go to Paris for a state visit at a still unannounced date. State Department authorities are making no secret of their chagrin over West Germany's quiet cut of $250 million in its loudly - touted foreign aid program. During Chancellor Adenauer's recent Washington visit, he told President Kennedy West Germany would set up a $1 billion fund for foreign aid. That was widely publicized. But last week, Economic Minister Ludwig Erhard informed Secretary Rusk and Treasury Secretary Dillon that this figure is being reduced to $750 million. No explanation was given for the backstage slash.

GEORGE SOKOLOSKY

Moving Masses

Idea That Nothing Exists Unless Publicized Is False

I am often told not to dignify somebody or something by giving him or it public attention. The idea behind this advice is that nothing exists unless it is noted in the press.

I learned different in October 1917. Seven men and two women who were generally of neutral personalities came to Petrograd to take over Russia. I knew most of them. I knew where they were hiding. Of an evening one might have gone to a Cafe Chantant, as they called a night club there, to listen to an actress ridicule these men and women. Trotsky, in particular, was ridiculed. Madam Kollantai, a wealthy woman turned Red, was laughed at for her beauty and good clothes.

That was 44 years ago. I recall attending the Constituent Assembly which was the hope of the Russian people. Lenin sat on the platform for a short time. He was a mild, calm, dull-looking man who looked perhaps like a printer or maybe a grocer. He waved to a girl in the balcony. Then the Bolsheviks got bored. They left the hall. The seats they vacated were so few that numerically they counted for nothing. This was a small band of nobodies who fancied themselves rulers. Then, one of them, Dybenko, came into the hall of the Tauride Palace and gently told the assembled delegates that they had better get out. One man against the nation. So they all got out. They went their various ways.

During the intervening 44 years, this small band became masters of a large part of the world. Lenin has been deified and most of his associates have been murdered. Trotsky was assassinated in Mexico and Angelica Balabanoff in Palo Alto writing. Perhaps she alone remains of those who attended the Zimmerwald Conference which started this particular historic ball rolling.

At that time, who thought that the Bolsheviks would ever amount to anything? Everyday, I went to the Smolny Institute, where they made their headquarters, and never did one see a more motley crew. But soon the hair was combed: the beads were trimmed: the clothes were more orderly. These were the new rulers.

Since then I have never ignored a mass movement, no matter how small or how absurd. Most mass movements appear absurd, even ridiculous, when they start. The beginnings of Hitler must have been very funny to the onlooker; this Charlie Chaplin figure, screaming and yelling and attitudinizing in beer-halls. Hitler was not so funny when he disturbed the entire world. We laughed at him but many of our sons died on account of him. Perhaps they died because no one would take Hitler seriously at the right time, which was why he started.

When I report small mass movements, some serious, some screwball, in the United States, I am often told not to "dignify" such absurdities by giving them publicity. The surprising fact is they somehow make their own publicity, just as a man trying to jump off a tenth story ledge into a crowded street will attract attention.

The little mass movements at this moment in this country are very different from those in the 1920's. Then folks, young and old, were angry because of the shock of the Depression. They had not expected that the American economic system could ever collapse. They had lived through the mad 20's and expected its inflationary character to be permanent. They drank spiked beer and bought liquor from bootleggers. The spree came to an end and an entire nation lost hope.

In the 1960's the mass movements are beginning to take on different characteristics. Young men and women are still angry but one might guess that one reason for their anger is that Roosevelt sociology, Keynesian economics and the United Nations have not brought them peace and contentment. Laugh at these young people because of their nihilistic symbolism but their protest is spreading. So older folks are demanding the abolition of the income tax and other groups pick on other segments of our troubled lives. To ignore these movements because their causes are badly stated and because con men get into them as they get into the liberalism of the 20's and 30's is not understanding the period in which we live. When one organization can build a membership of 100,000, it cannot be ignored.

Jobless Problem

Too Many Untrained Youngsters, Unskilled Men Lack Work

We are into a business upswing which will lift our economy to new peaks this fall and which, I suspect, may become substantially more powerful than most experts now anticipate. Yet, in the face of this, there is no question that the rate of joblessness among untrained youngsters and unskilled men whose jobs have been erased forever will remain intolerably high. The stark reason is these won't be prepared to fill the jobs which will be opening.

We are threatened with a crucial shortage of skilled workers during this decade of dramatic technological advance. Yet we also are threatened with mass unemployment, because so many of our young workers won't have learned the skills our economy will be seeking.

In the previous four columns, I outlined the pioneering training-retraining programs being initiated by the Federal Government, paid tribute to the constructive efforts of individual companies, unions and communities to meet the challenge of the unskilled worker. But not even the most grandiose government programs — which none of us wants — and not even the most elaborate corporation and union efforts will solve the problem unless YOU play your part.

YOU can help tremendously just by understanding and doing your utmost to publicize the fact that youngsters who now drop out of school are doomed to stay at the bottom of the job and income pile for life. You've read the projections in this series — in this decade 7,500,000 will drop out before obtaining a high school diploma, 2,500,000 will drop out before completing grade school. Warn the parents of these children and the children what dropping out means: make them realize that they'll be the truly handicapped in an era which will demand skilled workers.

YOU can help tremendously by giving the worker who goes in for manual training the respect and status his career warrants. We need surgeons, sure we need mechanics too. The snobishness toward a skilled mechanic which so many Americans practice discourages youngsters who would like to be and could be superb craftsmen. Change your own attitude and you'll influence the attitude of your children and we'll all benefit.

YOU can help tremendously by insisting on a higher calibre of education among the vocational schools of our country. Our vocational schools are generally inferior, incapable of giving to the youngsters the skills they and our nation need.

YOU can help tremendously by saluting and actively supporting employers who have the decency to give as much thought to the problem of a displaced man as to the problem of a displaced machine. Many employers are trying—with on - the - job training programs, financial assistance to those who can qualify for and want retraining — and many more will try if they're given incentives or if they feel the expenses will be more than repaid by community and customer good will. Similarly, you can help by saluting and actively supporting union programs in this area.

YOU can help tremendously by developing and participating in community projects to train youngsters and retrain older workers for jobs that are and will be opening, to locate and relocate workers in the areas where the jobs are and will be. You can vastly improve the job analysis and job placement services in your neighborhood, vastly upgrade the adult education courses available. No government has to do this for you.

A strong, sustained business expansion is the imperative if we're to slash our jobless total to reasonable levels — and, I repeat we will be fortunate enough to get this in coming months.

But even a great upswing will not bite much into the hard core of the 1,200,000 who have been jobless 13 weeks or more, the almost 1,000,000 who have been jobless 26 weeks or more. Certainly no upswing will, by itself, change the chilling projections on our untrained youngsters.

Once you recognize these facts, the need for special attacks on the problem of the unskilled jobless becomes obvious. Once you grasp the significance of the challenge to all of us, the common sense of "meeting it head - on" becomes unassailable.

Gore Favors Removal Of Joint Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer's secret testimony on the Cuban invasion debacle Friday prompted Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to call for his removal as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

But Gore's assertion that Lemnitzer and his fellow chiefs should be ousted drew quick opposition from other members of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee which heard Lemnitzer's account of the military role in last month's abortive invasion.

Gore left the closed session of the Latin-American Affairs subcommittee before other senators and told newsmen: "We need a shakeup of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. I reached the conclusion on my own that we directly need a new chairman, as well as new members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

The Tennessee said he based his conclusion on Lemnitzer's testimony but would not disclose what the Army general said.

Later, the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., came from the hearing room and told reporters he has "complete confidence in the Joint Chiefs of Staff and their ability to protect the security of the country in connection with any military matter over which they have complete jurisdiction."

Another Democratic subcommittee member, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, subscribed to the idea of the blame must be shared, saying: "The question is not whether CIA or the Pentagon was to blame. Both advised the President that the plan was feasible. Both must share the blame, even though the President rightfully assumed full responsibility."

The White House had no comment on Gore's remarks. There have been rumors that President Kennedy was asked by the Joint Chiefs of Staff for advising him that the invasion effort by anti-Castro Cubans was a militarily sound project, Lemnitzer and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, reportedly signed a memorandum to this effect.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has forbidden top Defense Department officers to discuss the Cuban matter, so the Pentagon's version never has been made public.

IN WEST MONROE

Street Project Bonds Are Sold

Sale of paving bonds Friday in West Monroe has opened the way to an early beginning in construction on the city's $29,527 street improvement program.

Low bidder yesterday in open bidding at the city hall were the firms of Barrow-Leary and Co. and Scharff-Jones and Co., both of Shreveport, who took on the bid as a joint account. Bonds totalling in value $223,152, were sold for an average annual simple interest rate of 3.62 per cent. Two other bids were submitted.

A total of $126,235 already had been paid by affected West Monroe property owners in individual assessments, reducing the amount on which the bonds were sold.

ALTERNATIVE. Property owners were given the alternative of paying their assessments in a single lump payment or financing the debt over a period of ten years, officials said. Those who have elected to follow the time payment plan will be billed each December 31 for one-tenth of their assessments plus the 3.62 per cent interest figure.

West Monroe officials pointed out, however, that those desiring to do so, still could pay out assessments ahead of the ten year schedule and take advantage of a saving in interest. The procedure in such cases, they said, would require calling in of bonds to cover the balance still owed, and an additional year's interest would be added to the charge as a premium.

Following opening bids, Mayor

J. Allan Norris said that the city was "highly pleased at this excellent bid." It had been speculated that interest might run as high as 4 1/2 per cent.

Frank Fromherz, engineer of Fromherz Engineers in New Orleans, said that prime contractors Bentz and Elmore definitely plan to begin work next week. About 20 1/2 miles of West Monroe streets are involved.

"The first streets to be tackled are those which will be resurfaced," Fromherz explained. "Then, about ten days later, work will begin on those that must be completely rebuilt."

Mayor Norris noted that Friday's action was the climax to the city's street plans which first got underway in September of 1959.

Court Told Of Gambling At Vice Trial

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—The trial of George Ratterman, arrested in a hotel room May 9 with a strip-tease dancer, turned Friday to headline gambling in Newport and Campbell County.

Ratterman is the candidate of a reform group for sheriff of Campbell County and has pledged to fight alleged vice conditions, including gambling, in the county. In his second appearance on the witness stand, Ratterman testified under cross-examination by Prosecutor Thomas Hirschfeld that he had seen gambling at Beverly Hills and at the Glenn Henderson.

The Glenn Henderson, once was the name of the Tropicana, a night club in the same building with the where Ratterman was arrested with Miss Hodges, 26, a dancer who appears under the name of April Fowers. Ratterman is on trial on charges of breach of peace, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. Miss Hodges is charged with prostitution and Tito Carini, manager of the hotel and the Tropicana, with breach of peace. Ratterman was arrested in Carini's hotel suite.

He has claimed he was charged and framed.

Earlier, Ratterman testified about incidents leading up to his arrest. He said he and Thomas Parsley of Medina, Ohio, met Carini in the Terrace Hilton Hotel in Cincinnati on the evening of May 4 after Carini had asked for a meeting, presumably to discuss getting out of the gambling business and opening a restaurant in New York.

Ratterman has denied ever seeing Miss Hodges before three Newport detectives burst into the room. He said however, that after going to the Glenn, "I believe I can recall a woman in a red dress."

"I have a recollection of standing beside the bed and being very drowsy and wanting to go down but feeling I should go home," Ratterman said.

He related he could recall the noise and commotion of the police and of loud talk by a man he identified as Pat Chafedini, Newport detective who led the raid.

Ratterman testified he could not identify any other persons in the room.

The detectives testified earlier that Ratterman and Miss Hodges were only partly clad but Ratterman said in a previous statement that police tore off his trousers.

Friday he testified "I can recall the sensation, the feeling of having my trousers yanked at, pulled at, yanked off."

Dr. Frank Cleveland, Cincinnati pathologist, who Thursday testified that Ratterman's blood showed presence of both chloral hydrate — knockout drops — and alcohol, said on cross-examination Friday that unusual excitement or stimulation would enable a person to overcome temporarily the effects of chloral hydrate.

Soviet Life For Youths Explained

JONESVILLE (Special)—Students of the Soviet Union are not permitted to ask questions or participate in discussions, members of the Jonesville Lions Club were told by Henry G. Taliaferro, member and guest speaker of the club at this week's meeting.

Children begin their education at the age of two and one-half months when they are placed in a nursery school until three years old. Then they are put in kindergarten until the age of seven, when they enter elementary grades, he said.

After finishing the secondary school, or eleventh grade, students take a competitive examination. Only those that pass are permitted to attend institutions of higher learning. Others go to a technical school.

Students begin their daily schedule at 7 a.m. and end at 9 p.m. with four meals per day. They are allowed to go to movies three times per week, watch TV twice, and parents may visit them on Sunday and they are permitted to go home on holidays.

There is no shortage of teachers, who are appointed to jobs with a pay scale very low as compared to that of the United States.

Great stress is placed on physical and foreign languages. Taliaferro said.

VISIT NORWAY

OSLO (UPI)—The Shah and Queen Farah of Iran arrived Thursday for a three-day official visit to Norway.

Tax Plan May Empty Cafes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress witnesses opposing Kennedy's recommendations. In General, they argued the present law permits "ordinary and necessary" expenses adequate if enforced, and that businessmen should not be unduly deprived of discretion as to what is necessary to their operations.

So grim a picture did New York restaurateur Vincent Sardi Jr. paint, that Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., asked: "Are you suggesting midtown Manhattan may become a distressed area that would have to seek aid under this legislation we have just passed and have its people retrained for different jobs elsewhere?"

"That may sound like an exaggeration," Sardi replied, "but it really isn't."

He said a restaurant recession is already on, aggravated by "a drastic curtailment, a holding back" on the part of usually free spenders frightened by the mere possibility of a clampdown on expense account tax deductions.

"We feel we can exist under a system of perfectly legitimate business expenses, perfectly legitimate business practices," Sardi told the House Ways and Means Committee. He argued that such things as $4 to $7 limits on business entertainment meals and disallowance of food and drink items not directly related to a business deal go too far.

There may be abuses, he said, but "you wouldn't fight juvenile delinquency, for example, by abolishing children."

Sardi said the effects of too drastic action would not stop in New York—"This will kill convention business in cities like Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Miami."

GIVE CAUTIOUS APPROVAL

Solons Doubtful Summit To Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of Congress greeted with generally cautious approval Friday the formal announcement that President Kennedy will meet with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna June 3-4.

Most reaction reflected belief that little in the way of concrete accomplishments will come out of the conference. Some members expressed misgivings about the timing.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he thinks it is a good idea for the two heads of state to discuss informally "some of the difficulties that confront us around the world."

No one should have any great expectations in regard to this meeting, he said. "But I certainly hope that it will narrow, rather than widen, differences over some of the questions that must be faced up to."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he hopes Kennedy will go to Vienna "adequately prepared" to deal with Khrushchev, whom the senator described as being "rather arrogant" as a result of the Cuban invasion fiasco and the situation in Laos.

In view of the fruitless efforts in this field heretofore, one can devoutly hope that some understanding can be contrived and that there will be no placatory attitude on anything where a basic principle important to the interest of the United States and the free world is involved," Dirksen said.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said he is confident Kennedy will give a good account of himself in his meeting with Khrushchev.

Humphrey said the President will have to take the risk that Khrushchev will attempt to use the meeting for propaganda purposes because he believes it is important for Kennedy "to know the opposition" personally.

However, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said he questions the timing of the conference in the light of events in Cuba and Laos.

It seems to me Khrushchev has most of the marbles now," he said.

Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., expressed misgivings about the conference, but Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said those who think this isn't the time for it "are never likely to find an ideal time."

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., one of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he hopes the meeting isn't overwhelmed with publicity.

"I only hope this can be conducted in such a way that it will improve our relations," he said.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said he was glad the decision was made by Kennedy to meet with Khrushchev since he felt the action demonstrated that the United States "wants to move in the ways of peace."

"In my judgment, the more you can make the Russians talk, the more it will show who is seeking a peace solution of vexing problems," he said.

Sen. Homer E. Caphart, R-Ind., suggested nothing would come of the session. He forewarned the possibility of some incident embarrassing to the United States.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., who previously had opposed any such meeting as "ill-advised" and "ill-timed," said Kennedy would go to Vienna "with my unstinting support, and that of the American people."

Group Sees Return To States' Rights

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special)—Virginia's commission on constitutional government has "complete confidence" in the eventual restoration of sovereign rights to states, a Louisiana visitor to Virginia reported Friday.

A report on a conference in which the Virginia group was made to the Louisiana State Sovereignty Commission by Herman Taylor of Charlottesville, commission member.

Taylor, chairman of a commission committee seeking cooperation of other states, was one of delegation which traveled to Richmond earlier this week.

The Charlottesville man said he was impressed with the stability of state government and complete confidence in the Virginia body.

One issue of the Virginia constitution, Taylor said, is an attempt to keep common law, informed as to the facts and background as well as the comments in efforts to restore constitutional rights.

"These developments have been directed primarily," he reported, "toward dissemination of information on the issue will lead to a broader understanding of principles upon which this country was founded."

The Virginia group's meeting last Tuesday, even includes federal judges, including those on the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Louisiana State Sovereignty Commission Group was the first of a planned series of contacts to be made in other states with similar problems, in states which have no sovereignty commissions, it is planned to offer aid in setting up such an organization.

Taylor said Louisiana and Virginia have a number of common problems in state sovereignty.

Film Actress Pays Studio For Contract

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actress Carroll Baker is paying off the final installment on a $250,000 purchase of her old movie contract with studio boss Jack Warner.

She bought it from the film mogul on a sort of time credit plan.

The blonde Miss Baker worked for the Burbank moviemaker until about a year ago when she quit. After a series of negotiations it was decided that the pact, which had two more years to run, would go by the boards for one quarter of a million dollars.

Ever since then, Warners has been getting a percentage of Miss Baker's salary.

"I gave them a down payment when I left the studio," said the pretty, blonde Carroll. "In one picture, I gave them half of my salary, on another it was a round sum."

Now, Carroll is making the final payment of $50,000 which she'll earn in "How the West Was Won," a picture which will costar some of the biggest names in Hollywood, Jimmy Stewart, John Wayne, Walter Brennan and Debbie Reynolds.

"I gave Warners most of my salary from the picture," said Miss Baker who gets paid more than $50,000 per film. "Everybody in this picture is working for less salary than usual because it's for a hospital charity."

Carroll said she wanted to leave Warners because the scripts offered her weren't satisfactory.

"They wanted me to do Rachael, Cade and Claudelle Indian," she explained. "I didn't want to do those pictures, so I decided to buy my way out."

I had made only three films in four years at the studio and there were always battles. I got tired of fighting and think they probably did too. I guess they were glad to see me go."

Carroll has no regret over paying the cash.

"It was an investment in the future," she explained, adding that she will now be able to choose pictures which will help her career.

If nothing else, the experience will help Miss Baker's credit rating should she decide to buy a new stove or something.

MARTIAL LAW TIGHTENS

Korea President Humbly Resigns

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—President Yun Po-sun gave his blessing to South Korea's new military rulers and announced his resignation in a humbly worded statement Friday. The grip of martial law tightened.

The military chiefs pushed a crackdown that included the arrest of almost 3,500 persons. Official announcements said prisoners included 2,500 hoodlums and 930 leftists considered potential Communist suspects. A security doctrine set up severe penalties for membership in what it broadly termed antistate organizations.

By accident or design, Yun's announced resignation clouded diplomatic relations between South Korea and its friends abroad, including the United States. Foreign envoys here have been accredited to Yun rather than to the fallen government of Premier John M. Chang.

Both American and British officials had said their recognition of the military takeover would be any kind along the front.

The decision of the last of the country's constitutional officials to step out came amid rumors—authoritatively denied—that small-scale fighting had broken out on the central sector of the truce line dividing the South from Communist North Korea. Phone calls to Seoul newspapers started the rumors.

Col. Lucien F. Keller, U.S. Embassy military attache, said the rumored fighting "did not take place." A spokesman for U.S. Command reported no trouble of any kind along the front.

Castro Now Grave Free World Threat

(Continued From Page One) that they did not support Castro's regime. Thousands of people, grabbed up by secret police and herded into detention centers under inhuman conditions, have been freed. But thousands more have been arrested in the wake of a campaign of repression which appears to go deeper than those of the worst days of the Communist campaign in Europe.

The Castro revolution, encouraged by its military and political successes, has reached the stage of brutal swagging with the Cuban dictator and his supporters openly lashing out at their enemies at home and abroad and challenging the United States to do anything about it.

It appeared to me as it did to many others watching the Communist sweep over Cuba — that at times Fidel Castro had lost control of his own revolution.

One of his proudest boasts had been the honesty of his regime. Yet his G-2 and militia raiding parties in their roundup of Americans and Cubans after the invasion attempt at times seemed more interested in looting than in finding evidence of counterrevolutionary or other wrongdoing.

A former anti-Castro underground leader who escaped the post invasion roundup of more than a quarter-million Cubans by Castro's secret police cried openly as he told me of his experience. "The Communist has spread so quickly that it covers not only factories and farms and schools, but even homes as well," he said. "I fled from our house after my own brother — a Castro militiaman — denounced me as a counterrevolutionary."

The end of the invasion alert in Cuba by no means halted the reign of terror in which thousands and thousands of Cubans were imprisoned for no reason other than

Ex-Nazi Gave Death Orders

JERUSALEM (UPI)—The Israeli youth prosecution Friday used sworn statements by former Nazi officials to label Adolf Eichmann as the man who gave the orders which sent 60,000 of Yugoslavia's 75,000 Jews to their deaths during World War II.

The depositions were submitted to the special court trying the former S. S. officer on charges of the mass murders of 6,000,000 European Jews after it heard Yugoslav-born Jews testify of atrocities against Jews, Christians, and other Yugoslavs.

Alexander Arnon, 63, former secretary of the Jewish community in Zagreb, told the court that only 15,000 Jews escaped the Nazi murder machine. Of the 60,000 who died, some 20,000 were killed in one death camp alone near the Croatian capital of Zagreb, he said.

In addition to the Jews, nearly 600,000 other persons perished in the camp, most of them Serbs and "enemies" of the Croat puppet regime set up by the Nazis, he said.

A personal account of escape from death was related by Dr. Hinko Salz, 55. He said the Nazis in 1941 shot 120 Jewish hostages in retaliation for an alleged act of sabotage by a 17-year-old Jew.

Salz testified that the Nazis selected their victims from between 1,000 and 1,500 Jewish men rounded up in Belgrade. He said they were ordered to separate into groups according to professions and then to count off. Every fifth man was ordered the step forward.

"Our group was counted and I was the fifth," Salz testified. "The Jews are called the chosen people and I was in the group of the chosen among the chosen."

He said he escaped being shot only by producing papers proving he was a medical officer of the Yugoslav Army and a war prisoner. Another man was selected to take his place among the doomed hostages.

Salz also told the court his 77-year-old father died shortly after a beating by the Nazis because he was too weak to carry six bricks. He said his father had to help clear the ruins of Belgrade's Royal Palace. Everyone was supposed to carry six bricks but his father could carry only three, he said.

Arnon in his testimony said the Jews in Zagreb to pay them 150 million dinars, about $25 million at that time. He said they took jewelry as well as cash.

All Jews, including "infants in baby carriages," had to wear the yellow star of David badge.

Snead Jumps Ahead In Own Tournament

Slammer In Six-Stroke Advantage

By DICK LEONARD
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Sam Snead left his competition for behind Friday with a sizzling 6-under-par 64 to grab a six-stroke lead in the golf tournament named in his honor.

The 64, together with a 65 in the rain Thursday, gave the West Virginia slammer a 129 at the halfway mark in the Sam Snead Festival.

Masters champion Gary Player charged into second place with a 135 on the strength of a 67 over the par-70 Old White layout Friday.

Snead and Player were the only ones who bested par in each of their first two rounds.

Third was the Canadian Stan Leonard who posted a 65—the best score of the tournament so far. One stroke behind Leonard's 136 was U.S. Open champion Arnold Palmer, who parlayed his big game into a 67 this windy, cloudy day.

Bracketed with 138s were Chick Harbert of Miami, Fla.; Bill Ogden a club pro at Glenview, Ill., and Bob Watson, Thursday's runner-up, Watson, from Elmsford, N.Y., ballooned from a 67 to a 71.

Rounding up the top 10 among the 71 entries with 140s were Gardner Dickinson Jr. of North Palm Beach Village, Fla.; Ed Merrins of Cedarhurst, N.Y., and Joe Taylor of Charleston, W.Va.

Snead, who has been the pro here since 1936, showed he could play the layout in any type of weather.

"I didn't want to burn up the course yesterday, I just wanted to dry it out," he said in reference to his opening round of 65.

That was played in a rain. Friday, he went out in the wind and cut this score by one stroke. He missed several long putts by inches.

"I hung two putts—they needed just a quarter of a turn to go into the hole," Snead grinned.

But he did hole out a 50-foot chip shot and ran down a couple of 20 and 40 foot putts. So he wasn't complaining. He had one bogey three-putting the No. 5 hole.

Player, the top money winner of the year to date, hasn't had a bogey in this tournament.

"I'm playing real well," he said. "When you don't have any bogies it's a sign you're playing real well."

Leonard, who says he is playing as well as he ever did, was waving his putter like a magic wand. He needed only 28 putts and was sinking them from 30, 15, 10 and a feet.

The 63 round equalled the best competitive score he has ever made, he said.

Palmer had his big game working this round, but still was bothered by a bad cold. He got off to a rousing start, chipping in a 65 footer off the first green. But he three-putted another hole to offset it.

WILD EIGHTH INNING

Indians Rally To Defeat New York Yankees, 9-7

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians came from behind with five runs in the wild eighth inning Friday night to defeat the New York Yankees 9-7.

The winning run came home when Jim Coates, the fourth Yankee pitcher, hit Woodie Held with the bases loaded. Vic Power added an insurance run with a steal of home.

The Indians trailed 7-4 but tied the score with three runs on three singles and a double, the big blow being a two-run single by Chuck Evers. The Tribe then loaded the bases on a double by Tito Francona and two walks to set the stage for the final two runs.

Bill Skowron and Cletis Boyer dropped pop fouls by John Roman for errors, but they did not figure in the scoring.

The victory went to Barry Latham, the second of three Cleveland pitchers, giving him a 3-0 record. Bob Allen set the Yankees down in order in the ninth. Tex Clevenger pitched one-third of the eighth inning and was charged with the loss, his second in five decisions.

The triumph was the first for the Indians over the Yankees since last July 2, when Gary Bell beat them 8-6. New York had won 11 straight over the Tribe since then.

The Indians got 15 hits to eight for the Yankees, but left 11 runners stranded.

Three of the Yankee hits were home runs by Roger Maris, Yogi Berra and Hector Lopez, accounting for six runs.

The Yankees got two runs in the first inning on Maris' fifth home run, of the season, a shot into the right field stands. Maris scored behind Lopez, who reached first base safely when shortstop Held fumbled his grounder.

Cleveland tied it in the home half of the first, Don Dillard, playing center field in place of Jim Persall who was out with a virus infection, doubled to left and scored on a single by Power. Bob Turley then walked the next three batters to force in the tying run.

Berra's homer over the right center field fence in the sixth inning followed a single by Maris and a walk to Mickey Mantle.

The Indians came back with two runs in the last of the sixth on three singles, a hit batsman and a sacrifice fly.

Reds Finish Fast, Topple Braves, 3-2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sparked by Jim O'Toole's five-hit pitching, the Cincinnati Reds came from behind Friday night to beat the Milwaukee Braves 3-2.

The punch for the victory was provided by the bats of Gene Freese and Gus Bell who homered to bring in the Reds' tallies.

The loss was charged to Lew Burdette (3-2) who gave up eight hits and walked one. O'Toole is 4-3.

The Braves seized an early lead when Frank Bolling singled and scored on a double by Hank Aaron. O'Toole, who had given a walk to Eddie Mathews before Aaron's two-homer, then filled the bases by passing Joe Adcock.

He was saved when John DeMerit forced Adcock.

Milwaukee added another run in the third when Bolling hit his third homer of the season off the left field screen.

AFTER 36 HOLES

Rudolph, Sanders Tied In Hot Springs Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Youngster Mason Rudolph of Clarksville Tenn., tied third leading pro money winner Doug Sanders for the 36-hole lead in the Hot Springs Open Golf Tournament Friday as both fired 4-under-par 68s for 136 totals.

They ousted Buster Cupit and Art Wall Jr. from the lead they held after Thursday's first round. Cupit slipped from 65 to par 72 Friday and Wall dropped from 65 to one-over-par 73.

The field of 94 was cut to 60 after the second round. Eighteen holes are carded Saturday. The tournament ends Sunday.

Sanders, winner of the Colonial at Fort Worth last week, shot a 34-34-68 Friday to match his 68 Thursday. Rudolph, a 26-year-old shot a 33-35 Friday, which included five birdies and a bogey on the 14th hole. He was short of the green in two shots and missed a three-foot putt.

Cupit, from Fort Smith, Ark., was tied for third with Bert Weaver of Daytona Beach, Fla., and Jerry Steelsmith of Glendale Calif. They had 137s. At 138 were Wall, Al Geberger and Dave Ragan.

Then came Doug Ford and Ken Still at 139.

The cutoff point was 140—five over par.

Rudolph had a total of 29 putts and Sanders had 31. Sanders shot five birdies but bogeyed the 7th and 12th holes. He said he was satisfied with the round.

Joe Kirkwood Jr. of Studio City Calif., posted the low 18-hole score Friday with a 5-under-par 67. He had a total of 140.

Rudolph has finished in the money in 14 of 16 tournaments to date, winning $2,462. His best showing so far was a tie for fourth in the St. Petersburg Open.

Wall got $4,000 top money out of the Colonial and announced he would not play in the Hot Springs tournament because his wife was ill and he was taking her to Mexico for a rest. He has won $26,703 this year.

He already had entered the meet here, and Tuesday he changed his mind and decided to play. Hot Springs tournament officials had said they might take the matter up with the PGA. A golfer can be fined and suspended for entering a tournament, then not playing.

By winning, the Orioles ended a five-game losing string and stopped Washington's winning streak at five.

After retiring the first batter in the eighth, Washington starter and loser Tom Sturdivant walked Brooks Robinson on a 3-2 pitch and Jim Gentile on four straight pitches.

Manager Mickey Vernon summoned Dick Sizer from the bullpen, but the ace reliever of the Senators continued the Baltimore rally by walking Clint Courtney, Ron Hansen and Gene Stephens in succession. That forced in two runs and put the Orioles ahead 3-2.

Two of the walks off Sizer came on 3-2 pitches and another on a 3-1 count.

With still only one out, Marty Kutyna replaced Sizer. He struck out Jerry Adair on a 3-2 pitch but walked Oriole pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, who has not made a hit this season, to force in the final run.

Cubs Outlast St. Louis In 1-0 Shutout

CHICAGO (AP)—Ernie Banks' infield pop fly that dropped safely for a double scored the only run Friday as the Chicago Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0.

The pop double, which Daryl Spencer lost in the sun, scored Al Heist who had led off with a single.

The pitching victory went to Glen Hobbie, his second against four defeats this season. Southpaw Ray Sadecki was charged with his third loss against two victories. Sadecki allowed only two other hits after the decisive first.

Sadecki got two of the hits off Hobbie. Stan Musial, playing left field, got a single in four trips to the plate and made a diving catch of a short fly by Hobbie in the third inning.

Ken Boyer, who had been hitting in the cleanup role, was advanced to the leadoff spot in the Cardinals' batting order and hit one single in four trips. Boyer had trouble on defense, committing two errors.

Don Zimmer of the Cubs threw wild into the dugout in the ninth inning after two men were out, but Red Schoendienst, pinch batting for Curt Flood, lined to Heist to end the game.

TO TOP GOLFERS

PGA Committee Issues Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Chairman Bob Rosburg of the PGA tournament committee Friday warned Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Stan Leonard they would be fined $500 each and suspended from the pro golf tour for six months if they skipped the Memphis Open.

There had been some question whether they would play in the International Cup Tournament at San Juan, Puerto Rico, instead of the regularly scheduled tournament June 1-4 instead of at Memphis.

Rosburg, who arrived in San Francisco Friday, said the PGA executive committee had voted to uphold sponsors of the Memphis tournament in their demand that PGA tournament champions of the past year appear in accordance with the pro organization's contract.

Rosburg said Sam Snead does not come under the rules in this case since he did not win a major tournament in the period concerned. He recently won the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions, but that was afterward.

Rosburg denied that the San Juan tournament amounted to true international competition.

"If it were such competition," Rosburg said, "There would be no question of the players being eligible to go to San Juan."

"But this is a competition set up by individuals for individual profit, namely Frank Pace and Fred Corcoran."

"They never have tried to schedule the event in cooperation with the Professional Golfers Association, or to select players by any set formula."

"The men who compete in their tournament are paid handsomely... it is nothing on the order of the Ryder Cup Matches."

Rosburg also commented that, in the case of Gary Player, here is a player "who comes to this country from South Africa and thinks it is real nice to win $48,000 in four months in PGA tournaments, but then suddenly doesn't think he should play by PGA rules."

Spicy News

The history of spices is perhaps one of the most romantic of all food stories. Historians trace the art of seasoning back to pre-historic days when man first wrapped meat in leaves to keep it fresh and discovered that the leaves gave the meat an interesting new flavor.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Babies Should Be Fed When They Get Hungry

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Older mothers who have brought their babies up on schedules are inclined to wonder why any mother would want to be at the mercy of the baby's hunger cries. Their disapproval may shake the young mother's confidence in what her doctor tells her.

The self-demand way of feeding babies has evolved through experience. Once babies were fed on demand, then they were fed on schedule and now they are again fed on demand. Why? Because the scheduled way did not suit all babies.

Had To Wait

When on a schedule the baby had to wait for its food until the clock said feeding time had arrived. Babies have hunger rhythms—that is, regular periods at which their systems need food. But the rhythm may not be the same for all children. No one knows better than the baby when he is hungry—certainly not the clock which may say when he ought to be fed but not when he is.

Varying Results

The baby who had to cry and cry until feeding time arrived accepted food when it came with varying results. If he had exhausted himself crying, he fell asleep after he had taken a little food. If he swallowed great quantities of air while he cried, his stomach would be full-feeding and a little food would satisfy him.

Even a young mother would not need to be told that in a short time he would be awake and crying for more to eat. Then the whole unhappy procedure would be repeated.

On self-demand feedings the baby wakes up, cries for food and is fed. He takes as much as he wants and when he is through no more is forced upon him. When he awakens again, whether it is two, three or four hours and shows that he is hungry, he is fed again.

Short-Lived

Erratic and too frequent feedings (sometimes as many as 10 a day) are short-lived. As the breast supply increases, or the baby gets used to its bottled formula, the periods between feedings become longer. As these tend to be regular—just as those of the scheduled baby—the time intervals can be depended upon and planned for.

At about 3 to 4 months of age the baby usually is quite agreeable to wait a little extra time before he is fed. This is the time to get him on a schedule which is more convenient to the household.

But, for the small baby getting oriented into a strange environment nothing could give him a better start than to be fed when his need for it arises, and to be held by a loving mother who shows him that her first aim is to make him happy and comfortable. This is the basis for his future faith and confidence in life and people.

The first six months of a baby's life are tremendously important to him. For information on care and feeding, send for Mrs. Eldred's booklet "The First Six Months." Enclose 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Answers To Questions On Home Decor

By BETTY PEPIS

Q.—Please suggest colors for draperies and chairs in my dining room. Walls are white flock paper with touch of gold, rug is deep blue. The furniture is French Provincial in walnut and olive wood. The chandelier is of ruby crystal. I would like to use white in the draperies, but feel it to be an impractical color. Should a print be used? If so, should it be carried into the living room which is connected by an archway to this room?

A.—With the new fabrics and soil-resistant treatments available today, white has become a practical color. I think white would be the best choice for your draperies, which should be a solid color. A formal fabric, such as an antique satin or a taffeta, would be ideal. The material could be Fiberglas, or some other synthetic fiber. Processes such as "Scotch Guard" can be used to treat fabric against soil and staining. The ruby color of your chandelier could be used in a nylon velvet for the chair seats, and the same color for accent in the living room.

Q.—My living room walls are deep green, draperies and ceiling are cream. Wood pieces are walnut and mahogany. Lamps are dark green with cream shades. What colors do you suggest I add, and what color should I use for carpet?

A.—You could use a basic neutral shade such as beige for the carpet. This will be a good balance for dark woods and dark walls. Furniture could be upholstered in light medium shades of gold, blues, or green with accents of bright color, perhaps raspberry pink or a rich red orange.

Q.—In my living room I have a curved sectional sofa in gold, and brass accessories. Floor is medium tone cork. Please suggest colors for an extra chair, walls, rugs and draperies. I would like a light, airy effect with practicality.

A.—So far you have done very well. I would continue the basic scheme you have. Paint walls a very light tone of gold, draperies in a slightly deeper shade of gold. Draperies might be heavily textured or a print of gold on white. Line green would be smart addition for extra chair. I would advise small patterned accent rugs which pick up colors in the room.

Not All Men Respond To Music And Perfume

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I work near a place where a lot of soldiers are stationed. I fell in love with a man about my age. He is married and has three children. Two of them are retarded. He says it isn't weren't for those retarded children he would marry me, but he would feel like a dog leaving his wife to care for them all their lives.

His wife found out about us and you should have seen the letter she wrote me! She said she would give me her husband on a silver platter if it weren't for the children, but she would see to it that they had a father so long as she lived.

We love each other. Why should my boy friend be stuck with retarded children all his life, plus a wife he doesn't love? Don't you think he deserves a little happiness, and a wife who could give him normal children? —WORKING GIRL.

DEAR WORKING: Your "boy friend" deserves credit for having more of a conscience than you. And if this weren't a family newspaper I would tell you what I think "you" deserve. Do one decent thing in your life and send him back to his wife and children.

DEAR ABBY: Have you any ideas on how to put the romance back into marriage? We've been married almost ten years, have two small children and my husband and I are both under 30. I've tried black robes, soft music, candlelight at dinner and I even sleep in perfume. Don't suggest doctors or vitamin pills. He's as healthy as a horse. —BEN-NICE.

DEAR BEN-NICE: Maybe you're trying too hard. Not all men respond to perfume and soft music. Try the great outdoors. How about a picnic in the woods or a swim in the lake? And a harvest moon can throw more heat than a candle.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married two months and during that time my mother-in-law has visited as over ten times often. Last Sunday, while dining, I spilled a few peas on the floor. I was embarrassed, as they are a very ritzy family, and have white wall-to-wall carpeting. I didn't know whether to crawl under the table and pick up the peas so no one would step on them, or to ignore it as I didn't think anyone

YOUR PROBLEMS

Improve Your Dancing And Reduce Boiling Point

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband loves to dance. I don't care for it. An old flame of his (now married) makes a B-line for him whenever they get together and there's music. They dance together all evening. I sit there like a dumb-bunny making small talk with the old flame's husband.

The other night they danced together for three solid hours. Between sets they'd go to the bar and not even return to the table. I got fed up, finally, and walked on to the dance floor and yanked him a little by the necktie. His glasses fell off but they didn't break.

Now he's mad at me and says I'm no lady. How much is a wife supposed to take anyway? Who was wrong? —MELVA.

Dear Melva: It sounds like I draw to me. A man shouldn't leave his wife stranded for three hours but you shouldn't have yanked him off the floor. Improve your dancing and reduce your boiling point.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 22 and have been going with a bachelor for five years. Just when I think everything is set and start to make plans for our wedding, something happens.

Harry has a genius for getting himself into business deals that keep him broke. The guy is 44, handsome, fascinating, nobody's fool, and we like the same things. He is also a target for every phony who passes through town. Two years ago when we had our wedding date set he got into a deal with some people who imported semi-precious stones. They were guaranteed to look like diamonds only you had to heat them up every six months or they'd get cloudy. He went for his total savings on that one so we had to postpone the wedding.

Last April I was all set to be a June bride. In May somebody sold Harry a salt mine that belonged to the state of Utah. He was so broke after that deal that I had to lend him money to live on.

He says he loves me but he

New Student Bus Riding Try Stymied

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Seven Tennessee Negro college students, hustled out of Alabama Friday by police, returned a few hours later and were stymied in an effort to make an integrated bus ride from Birmingham.

They were joined by other Negroes and three white persons on the loading dock, waiting on a bus for Montgomery. It was reported that drivers refused to drive the bus — the same factor that left two earlier groups stranded at the station.

One of the earlier groups got a plane out of Birmingham. The other, some of whose members were in Friday's group, went to jail in protective custody.

The tense racial situation in this Deep South city was the subject of a telephone call by President John Kennedy to Lt. Gov. Albert Boutwell. The nature of the conversation was not revealed.

Late in the day, police arrested the Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, Birmingham Negro integration leader, on charges of conspiracy and disturbing the peace.

Both counts stemmed from Sunday's bus incident when several persons, including some integrationists, including some integrationists, were beaten at the Trans-ways bus station.

The first count charges that he conspired with unknown persons to cause a mob to gather and the second count accuses him of disturbing the peace in causing the mob to gather. Bond was fixed at $1,000 on each count.

Sterlington High Baccalaureate Service Sunday

Sterlington High School has set its first annual Baccalaureate Service for 9 a.m. this Sunday in the gym - auditorium at the school.

Addressing graduates will be the Rev. Harvey Starling, pastor of the Church of Christ, with the Revs. Raddeen and Barton also participating in services.

Musical selections will be rendered by the school chorus.

Principal O. K. Bailey yesterday extended a public invitation to families of the graduates and friends of the school to attend.

Chamber Groups Slate Meetings

Two committees of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce have scheduled planning meetings for next week.

The agriculture committee, headed by John Birdsong, will meet at 3 p.m. Thursday at the Chamber office in the Virginia hotel, to work out a program for 1961 and discuss projects.

The convention committee will meet at noon Friday in the Riviera Room of the Penn Royal hotel, to lay the foundation for conventions to be held in Monroe this year and in 1962. Paul Goldman is chairman.

Actor Chandler On Critical List

CULVER CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Jeff Chandler was "much improved" Friday in his fight for life after emergency surgery in which he received a transfusion of 55 pints of blood.

Dr. Marvin Korben reported the steady improvement in hours after the operation. However, he said the rugged 6-foot-4, 210-pound movie star known for his outdoor roles was still on the critical list at Culver City Hospital.

The period of crisis, a spokesman said, probably would last through Saturday.

PACKING HOUSE BURGLARY Man, 24, Sentenced To Four-Year Term

A 24-year-old West Monroe man was sentenced to four years in the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola Friday on a simple burglary charge.

Judge Jesse Heard sentenced Frank McQuiller for his part in burglarizing Cloyd's packing house in April.

Another youth, William R. Fox, previously received a prison term for the offense.

Gordon L. Smith, 20, 1002 Winnboro Rd., also charged with the offense, was given a suspended five-year penitentiary term and placed on probation.

John Allen Swan, 17, Negro, 1311 Griffin St., drew four-year suspended prison terms, concurrent, on each of three counts of forgery, and was placed on probation.

Swan admitted forging checks for $28.50, $25.50 and $26.50. Frank Bradshaw, 26, of Archibald, pled guilty to theft of a cur-red-bone dog valued at $45 from J. M. Perkins, 1507 Nat St., West Monroe, and was remanded for pre-sentence investigation.

William L. Gooden, 25, 1013 Nat St., West Monroe, pled innocent to the theft charge.

Thomas J. Hall, 36, Savannah, Ga., pled guilty to burglarizing the Red Ball Pool Hall, 210 N. Second St., and was remanded for pre-sentence investigation.

Deltres Brown, Denver, Colo., Negro, changed her plea to guilty on charges of burglarizing the Club "21" and Hardy's Little Club in April.

Hosna Lee Atkins, 29, Negro, 1607 Hoover St., Bastrop, pled guilty and was remanded on two counts of forgery of $25 and $45 checks.

Samuel E. Foster, 20, 2002 Pick St., pled innocent to two charges of theft of scrap material worth $22.50 and copper valued at $99.51 from Ole Mathison on Winfred Young, Negro, 1652

Huffman Named Latin Club Prexy At Neville High

Steve Huffman was named new president of the Neville High School Latin Club Thursday evening in a meeting highlighted by election of a full slate of officers for the coming year.

Selected to serve under Huffman were:

Sandy Ballard, vice president; Carolyn Rae, secretary; Phil Guthrie, treasurer; Laura Griffith, public relations officer; Alvin Gammon, reporter; Gayle Kelly, parliamentarian; Jane Edwards, historian; David McCaskey, sergeant-at-arms; and Martha Grayson, chaplain.

Huffman replaces Cynthia Leigh at the head of the group. Various reports rounded out the session.

Technical Defects Delay Speed Test

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — An X-15 try Friday at a speed mark of 3,100 miles an hour was postponed just two seconds before the plane was to be dropped from under a bomber's wing.

A series of technical problems was blamed. Another try will not be made until next week.

Planes broke in and stole four dozen eggs, three pounds of sausage and four pounds of bread of 1,000 m.p.h. and altitude of 100,000 feet.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Some parents of Walnut Junior High School students protesting that a new approach to mathematics instruction has left them unable to help their youngsters are finding themselves back in school.

Seventh grade math teacher Donald Smith has set up hour-long classes to help parents become familiar with the new textbook. Written by 100 mathematicians and teachers, it uses such terms as "prime and composite numbers" and "integers."

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen
PARALYSIS FROM NERVE PRESSURE

Prolonged pressure may injure a nerve, leading to temporary muscular weakness and paralysis. Most of us have experienced the sensation at night when sleeping. We are awakened by numbness and tingling and have to roll over or get out of bed to alleviate the discomfort.

Saturday night paralysis was common in the early part of the century when saloons allowed patrons to sleep off. They passed out with the head on the upper arm, which was thrown over the back of the chair. These men were too drunk to feel the numbness and tingling from the pinched nerve but on awakening hours later they were unable to use the affected arm.

Dr. A. A. Marinacci of Los Angeles, who collected a group of unusual causes of nerve injury, reported his findings in a recent issue of Industrial Medicine and Surgery. The facial nerve, for example, emerges from the skull thru a small opening just in front of the ear.

The habitual placement of the phone receiver against the ear may create enough pressure on the nerve to produce paralysis of the facial muscles on that side (Bell's palsy). This is most likely to occur among workers who use the telephone for several hours, particularly those who rest the base of the phone on the shoulder to free the hands for writing.

The counterpart of Saturday night paralysis is now found in TV watchers. They rest their elbows on the arms of the chair with pressure on the nerves in the region of the crazy bone. Similarly, the nerve passing thru the cuff of the leg is pinched when one leg is rested on the shin bone of the other.

One of the most unusual injuries occurred in a woman who drove a car barefoot. Pressure on the sole of the foot from the brake pedal injured the tissues surrounding the nerve in that area. Other cases included carpet layers who overstretched the sciatic nerve in their work and had carriers who developed paralysis because of compression on nerves in the neck.

EROSION

D. M. H. writes: I read that the foundation of a hospital in England is being eaten away because of Epsom salts that gets on the floor. If this is so, wouldn't Epsom salts used as a purgative or to bathe bruised areas have the same effect on the body?

Reply

No. Many solids will deteriorate when kept in contact with harmless solutions over a long period of time. Water will rust away an iron foundation, for example, or make wood rot. But it won't affect the intestinal tract in this way.

MEN'S CHANGE OF LIFE

W. L. writes: Would you print something about the change of life period in men? My husband is moody and crabby; he has crawled into a shell and is drinking more and more. He won't go to a doctor because he doesn't think he has long to live.

Reply

If this is the change of life, testosterone will help. But if he is depressed or has other signs of a mental disorder, he needs the advice of a psychiatrist.

TEST IN NEWBORNS

A. H. C. writes: What is your opinion of the urinalysis test in a newborn to determine mental retardation?

Reply

This test is simple to do but since only one baby in 25,000 excretors has phenylketonuria, many physicians doubt if the test is practical to do routinely.

STEADY COUGHER

R. J. W. writes: My 6-year-old daughter has been coughing for half her life. Neither the pediatrician nor an allergist can find the cause. What can I do further?

Reply

Consider a change in climate if neither physician is able to make a definite diagnosis.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

Soon after 5 a.m. on May 21, 1861, "just as the dawn began to shine over the hills and through the trees," eight Union soldiers and a newspaper reporter made their way from the Alexandria, Va., docks toward the telegraph office.

The soldiers were members of the New York Fire Zouaves, the advance guard of 13,000 Federal troops which were invading the state of Virginia that day, the first offensive move of the Civil War against the Confederates.

The squad was on its way to cut the telegraph lines leading south of Washington across the Long Bridge and the Chain Bridge spanning the Potomac. Virginia had voted to secede the day before and the Union command was shoring up its defenses by seizing the territory lying on the southern side of the river across from the nation's capital.

PARTY DIVERTED

As the little party hastened through the almost deserted streets it came to the Marshall House, a three-story hotel, atop which flew a Confederate flag, the one which President Lincoln could see from his White House window and which galled official Washington.

The colonel leading the party hesitated at the hotel.

"Boys, we must have that down before we return," the colonel said, indicating the flag.

The colonel appeared to be stern between his assignment to cut the wires and removing the flag. Suddenly he turned into the hotel with his men and started toward the roof. On the first landing they met a man in shirt and pants.

The colonel demanded: "Who put that flag up?"

"I don't know, I'm a boarder here," the half-dressed man replied.

Posting men on each landing, the colonel and one companion climbed to the roof and the colonel cut down the offending flag.

FIRST VICTIM

They started back down, a corporal first, the colonel next and then the reporter.

At the second landing a man with a shotgun — the "boarder" — jumped from a dark passage and fired point blank into the breast of the colonel, who was folding the flag.

The corporal shot the man in the face with his rifle.

There in the half light of a hotel corridor, the North found its first hero — Col. Elmer Ephraim Ellsworth, 21, friend of Lincoln's, darling of the New York Fire Zouave Regiment, which he had recruited among New York City firemen, crack drillmaster and a man who might have gone far in the Union high command.

The reporter — Edward H. House of the New York Tribune — described Ellsworth's death: "he dropped forward with the heavy, horrible heaving weight which always comes of sudden death inflicted in this manner."

COLONEL REVENGED

The corporal — Francis Brownell — a boyhood friend of Ellsworth's, made sure the "boarder" was dead by running him through with his bayonet. The "boarder" was James T. Jackson, proprietor of the hotel who had vowed that he would die before allowing the flag to be taken down by the enemy.

House remembered the wire cutting mission, borrowed a revolver and led a squad of Zouaves to the telegraph office and silenced the lines.

Jackson became a hero in the South. Judith Brockenbrough McGuire, wife of an Episcopal minister in Alexandria, wrote in her diary on May 25 after she had fled from the city: "Jackson leaves a wife and children. I know the country will take care of him. He is the first martyr. I shudder to think how many more there may be."

Ellsworth's body was taken to Washington by steamer wrapped in a red Zouave blanket and laid out at the Navy yard. There the embalmers proved from the wound a gold circlet Ellsworth had worn and which was driven into his breast by Jackson's shot. The circlet was inscribed: "Non Solum Nobis sed Pro Patria" (Not for ourselves alone but for country).

The New York Fire Zouaves were put back aboard a steamer that night for fear they would burn Alexandria in revenge for their colonel.

On May 25, at 11 a.m. a funeral for Ellsworth was held in the East Room of the White House. Mrs. Lincoln wept through the services. Lincoln broke into tears several times. Ellsworth had been a law student in his office at Springfield, Ill., and like a member of the Lincoln family.

The next day, a Sunday, Ellsworth's body arrived in New York and was taken to the Astor House where his father and mother waited. The senior Ellsworth had learned of his son's death in a telegraph office in Mechanicsville, N.Y., his home. Hearing of the invasion, he went early on the 24th to learn the news before the newspapers were out. He knew his son would be in the van of the invasion if possible. As he sat in the telegraph office, an operator suddenly broke into tears as the sounders clicked out the message of Col. Ellsworth's death.

ELLSWORTH'S LETTERS

A private service was held in the Astor House. A minister read a letter Ellsworth had written to his mother and father the night before the invasion. It had been found in the colonel's pocket.

"The regiment is ordered to move across the river tonight," Ellsworth wrote. "... whatever may happen, cherish the consolation that I was engaged in the performance of a sacred duty. I am perfectly content to accept whatever my fortune may be."

Another letter found in his bloody jacket pocket was directed to his 18-year-old fiancée, Carrie Spafford, of Rockford, Ill. It began in a light vein, telling her that his regiment was moving that night, he added: "... among so many careless fellows one is some what likely to be hit. If anything should happen, the highest happiness I looked for on earth was a union with you."

PATRIOTISM GROWS

Ten thousand New Yorkers paid their last respects to Ellsworth as his body lay in state at City Hall where his benefactor, Justice Brandeis, would be four years dead. Other thousands turned out in the Albany Capitol before Ellsworth found his last resting place at Mechanicsville. He was the only military casualty in the invasion, and the first officer to be killed in the war. The few Confederates in Alexandria retreated toward Manassas after firing a volley.

The death fired the North to new patriotism. A group of youths heard of his death while playing baseball in Mechanicsville and enlisted in a body. A company of Zouaves in Lake Forest, Ill., did the same. Enlistments everywhere in the North increased. Editorials were written, streets, babies and a town at Alexandria were named for him and poets and composers recorded the death in rhyme and music.

Lincoln made a job in the Ordnance Department for the elder Ellsworth. Robert E. Lee was quoted as saying that Ellsworth might have become head of the Union Armies. A minister said at a memorial service: "We needed just such a sacrifice as this."

The North was making the most of its first hero.

United Press International 1861 May 20 — North Carolina secedes and Kentucky votes "neutrally."

May 21 — Richmond, Va., chosen as Confederate capital.

Legislation On Oil, Gas Industry Will Get Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate committee machinery is being put in motion for consideration of two legislative proposals that would increase the oil and gas industry.

The Senate Interior Committee has scheduled a hearing June 20 on a resolution to set up a Senate national fuel study committee. House leaders plan to avoid the outcome of the Senate proposal before taking any action to bring up for debate a similar house proposal.

The Senate Commerce Committee has set a hearing for May 24 on a bill by Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., dealing with rates and contracts of natural gas companies and procedures before the Federal Power Commission.

The Magnuson bill is being supported by the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners.

Former Republican U.S. Senator Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Republican Sen. George W. Malone of Nevada, 70, a tireless exponent of greater tariff protection for American business, died Friday of cancer. He had been in the hospital since May 12.

In his 12 years in the Senate, 1947-59, Malone compiled a bulky record of opposition to the reciprocal trade agreements law and of support for greater federal aid to spur domestic minerals production.

Malone was defeated for re-election in 1958 by Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., and made an unsuccessful bid for Nevada's lone congressional seat last year.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Ronald Bishop, 26, of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra says he started his tuba-playing career in the second-grade because he wasn't big enough to play the trombone. "They had a tuba they needed played, so they started me playing it," he says. He couldn't play the trombone in the school band because he "couldn't reach the positions."
